Eboni K. Williams – Attorney, Journalist, and Empowerment Advocate

Eboni K. Williams is an attorney, journalist, author, and television host who has built a powerful career at the intersection of law, media, and social justice. As the host and executive producer of The Grio with Eboni K. Williams and the first Black cast member of Bravo's The Real Housewives of New York City, she uses her platform to amplify conversations about race, leadership, and empowerment with authenticity and intellect.

A proud native of North Carolina, Williams earned her Bachelor of Arts in Communications and African American Studies from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and her Juris Doctor degree from Loyola University New Orleans College of Law. Her early work as a public defender and private attorney gave her firsthand insight into the legal and social challenges facing underserved communities, perspectives she continues to bring to her national commentary today.

Eboni has served as a host or contributor for CBS News, Fox News, and Revolt TV, co-hosted the award-winning show State of the Culture, and regularly appears as a guest expert on major news and talk programs.

As an author and speaker, Williams challenges audiences to embrace self-definition, lead with purpose, and confront the uncomfortable truths that stand in the way of progress. Her best-selling book, Bet on Black: The Good News About Being Black in America Today, is both a personal manifesto and a roadmap for empowerment.

With her blend of legal expertise, journalistic integrity, and unapologetic voice, Eboni K. Williams continues to inspire audiences nationwide to think critically, speak boldly, and “own their narrative.”

She is a proud member of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc.
